first class war that we didn't need it was to start with you were telling me maybe the last one all right what happened just when they thought we was finished we come back at him and won the darn thing didn't we don't on that.
Korsak table you know makes wars is like boxing you can let a stronger fella punch all round the ring for nine rounds and flatten him out on the Thames yes but then a lot stronger than we are on land mind you especially in the air course they are fighters all they thinks about it's just a sideline with us just your weight they'd be looking down for a bitter L before we finished with him better all right seems a long time since we were mucking about together and then I'll ward on it yes and here we are again with front-row seats for a new one not this time we've got to give up by our seats to be young somebody's got some petrol that's the principle lighter the warden will be after you for improper use of government supplies it's quite cozy in there yes makes a wonderful place for thinking not are you always thinking doesn't mean anything ah now he didn't he gets to my age sell memories is dangerous things I never thought when we was finishing up their last war that we was laying the carpet ratty Germans what's good all over him to make me now see me don't worry I'm not gonna make a buggers pickle myself stamping about in uniform I've won skirts for 50 years sometimes them as long sometimes may be short but they never mance maybe behind the back of a loom and if you think I'm gonna refugees off something at my time of life you're much mistaken I'm a decent respectable Londoner that's what I am about it you're not in it this time I don't mind if I do the thrust against the right be better so impossible my dear fellow you can't hold the line with sufficient strength to resist a frontal attack now the only thing to do is to start an encircling movement now with the French on your right oh who is it what sort of a fella the man's a cab drivers good Lord didn't
