Strickland: Doctor Emmett Brown, McFly? Tardy slip for you, Miss Parker. And one for you McFly I believe that makes four in a row. Now let me give you a nickle's worth of advice, young man. This so called Doctor Brown is dangerous, he's a real nuttcase. You hang around with him you're gonna end up in big trouble.

Marty:

Strickland:
slacker.
You remind me of your father when he went her, he was a slacker too.

why not do it with some style. Besides, the stainless, steel construction made the flux dispersal- look out.
Marty:

Doc:
Einstein's clock is exactly one minute behind mine, it's still ticking.

Marty:

Doc:
As far as he's concerned the trip was instantaneous. That's why Einstein's watch is exactly one minute behind mine. He skipped over that minute to instantly arrive at this moment in time. Come here, I'll show you how it works. First, you turn the time circuits on. This readout tell you where you're going, this one tells you where you are, this one tells you where you were. You imput the destination time on this keypad. Say, you wanna see the signing of the declaration of independence, or witness the birth or Christ. Here's a red-letter date in the history of science, November 5, 1955. Yes, of course, November 5, 1955.

Marty:

Doc:
I was standing on the edge of my toilet hanging a clock, the porces was wet, I slipped, hit my head on the edge of the sink. And when I came to I had a revelation, a picture, a picture in my head, a picture of this. This is what makes time travel possible. The flux capacitor.

Marty:

Doc:
to realize the vision of that day, my god has it been that long. Things have certainly changed around here. I remember when this was all farmland as far as the eye could see. Old man Peabody, owned all of this. He had this crazy idea about breeding pine trees.

time you left. I'm gonna send you back at exactly the same time. It's be like you never left. Now, I painted a white line on the street way over there, that's where you start from. I've calculated the distance and wind resistance fresh to active from the moment the lightning strikes, at exactly 7 minutes and 22 seconds. When this alarm goes off you hit the gas.

hook
at precisely 88 miles per hour, the instance the lightning strikes the tower, everything will be fine.

this kid. The consequences could be disastrous.

it.

you.
Marty:

I had more time. Wait a minute, I got all the time I want. I got a time machine. I'll just go back and warn him. 10 minutes oughta do it. Time-circuits on, flux-capacitor fluxing, engine running, alright. No, no no no no, c'mon c'mon. C'mon c'mon, here we go, this time. Please, please, c'mon.

Doc:

Marty:

Red:

Marty:

still got time. Oh my god.
No, no not again, c'mon, c'mon. Hey. Libyans.
Marty:

Libyan:

Marty:
you know, I never got a chance to tell you. About all that talk about screwing up future events, the space time continuum.

Doc:

Marty:

Lynda:
late	onight.

David:
of all, somebody named Greg or Craig called you just a little while ago.

Lynda:
Good morning, Dave, Lynda.

Parker called.

Loraine:
tonight the night of the big date?

Marty:

Loraine: planning it for two weeks.

Marty: lake, the car's wrecked.

George:

David:

George:

David:

George:
I wanna make sure that we get two coats of wax this time, not just one.

Biff:

George:

Biff: second coat.

George: something. Been on top of Biff ever since high school. Although, if it wasn't for him-

Loraine:

George:

Biff: it's your new book.
Loraine:

George:
accomplish anything.

Biff:

tonight.

Marty:

Jennifer:

Marty:
you.

Jennifer:

Marty:

Jennifer:

Marty:

gonna take the new truck for a spin.

Doc:

Marty:

to us in the future?
What do we become assholes or something?
Doc:
It's
your kids, Marty,
something has got to be done about your kids.

Marty:
get up to 88.

Doc:

THE END:
